Presentation – Mental Health and Homeless Issues, Heather Thomas, Orange County Mental Health and Homelessness

- Ms. Thomas provided an overview of the mental health and homeless programs offered by Orange County Government. In 2004, Orange County opened a Central Receiving Center (CRC) as a pre-booking jail diversion system. Individuals that might otherwise be Baker Acted or Marchman Acted are diverted to the CRC, which is collocated with Aspire Health. Approximately 98 percent of CRC clients are dropped off by law enforcement. Ms. Thomas provided an overview of the Crisis Intervention Team (CIT) training that is provided to law enforcement and encouraged more public awareness about this service in the community.
- CRC successes include:
 - $3.2 million in savings by the Orange County jail, since the CRC was established;
 - Reduction in jail population; and
 - 12 minute intake process when individuals are dropped off by law enforcement.
- The Committee discussed the lack of mental health and homeless services for elders. Ms. Gendron stated that Central Florida has no resources other than the Baker Act process when a violent elder needs to be separated from their caregiver. Ms. Austin stated that a number of elders were displaced from their homes due to Hurricane Irma and there is no transitional housing for elders.

- Ms. Thomas stated homeless services providers use an assessment score to determine a person's risk of homelessness and these individuals are placement on the waitlist for transitional housing based on their assessment score.
- Ms. Gendron stated the Central Florida community could benefit from a taskforce on mental health and aging issues. Ms. Thomas agreed and encouraged the elder services community to move forward on this taskforce, stated that this taskforce to gain traction, the elder services community would need to identify key stakeholders who would champion this issue.
