Minutes

- Ms. Reggentin opened the meeting thanked everyone for attending. Ms. Reggentin stated she would oversee the meeting since Edith Gendron, Chair of the Community Partnerships Committee, is out-of-town.

Presentations

- Presentation: Elders and the Court System - Ms. Reggentin introduced Wynter Solomon-Cuthbert. Ms. Solomon-Cuthbert manages the guardianship program for the Ninth Judicial Circuit Court of Florida.
- Ms. Solomon-Cuthbert stated that she has managed the guardianship program since 2005. The number of guardianship cases has increased from 171 newly filed cases in 2005 to 468 new cases in 2016. To date, there have been 234 new cases filed this year.
- Ms. Solomon-Cuthbert explained that Florida Statutes Chapter 744.359 and Chapter 825.103 regulate guardianship in Florida. Guardianship is a legal relationship giving another person (the guardian) the legal right and duty to exercise specific rights that have been removed from another person (the ward.) Ms. Solomon-Cuthbert discussed which rights would be removed under guardianship, including the right to vote, manage property and possess a driver's license. She also explained which rights the ward would retain, including the right to be as independent as possible, treated humanely and receive visitors.
- Ms. Solomon-Cuthbert discussed the process for filing for guardianship. This includes filing a petition for incapacity from the court. The filing fee for guardianship is $500. Other steps include a review by an examining committee, appointment of an attorney for the ward and criminal and credit checks on the potential guardian.
- Ms. Solomon-Cuthbert stated there are two primary types of guardians: family guardians and professional guardians. To become a professional guardian, individuals must take a 40-hour training course and pass an exam. Individuals interested in being a family guardian must take an 8-hour training course. In Orange County, this course is offered by Seniors First. Parents of an intellectually disabled child who has "aged out" of the youth system only need to take a 4-hour training course.

Minutes

- Ms. Reggentin asked the Committee to review the minutes of May 2, 2017. No changes were made. Upon a motion by Ms. Solomon-Cuthbert, seconded by Ms. Burnett, the minutes of May 2, 2017 were unanimously approved.

Commission on Aging Update

- Elder Ambassador Program – Ms. Reggentin provided a brief update on the Elder Ambassador program. To date this year, Elder Ambassadors have participated in 35 events and donated 750 hours of volunteer time to the program. There were also 20 volunteers who finished the core training and became new Elder Ambassadors in 2017.
- LIFE Information for Elders Seminar Series – Ms. Reggentin stated the fall schedule has been released and encouraged everyone to share this information in the community.

Partnership "Go Around"

- Ms. Reggentin asked attendees to share any new programs or events associated with their organization.
 - Ms. Bridge and Ms. Burnett, Orlando Health Memory Disorder Clinic – This clinic is one of 15 state-funded memory disorder clinics that provide full medical evaluations for their clients. The Caregiver College series runs through August and includes two more sessions.

- Nancy Gavaghan and Anne Maley, FUNctional Independence Training – Two fall prevention classes are planned for the fall. These 8-week classes begin on September 6 at the Eatonville Library and September 12 at the Center for Independent Living.
